Please note: You will want to insert personalized pictures on each page because part of the purpose of a social story is to prepare people for a situation they will encounter and this is best done through pictures of what they will actually see vs. generic pictures.
I get to go to my 4-H club meeting. 4-H will be lots of fun!
When I go to 4-H, I get to see all my friends.
First, we play fun games and sing songs. All of the games and songs make the kids happy.
Next, we get ready for our club meeting to start. To get ready, everyone sits down in chairs, stops talking, is quiet, and listens carefully. If I need to take a break during the meeting, it is ok. I just need to tell an adult and we can go in another room until I am ready to go back to the meeting with the other kids.
Kids are our club officers. They sit at a table in the front of the room. Kids are in charge. Adults are there to help.
When it is time to start the meeting, the president taps a gavel to get everyone’s attention. Some times the gavel is loud when it is tapped.
When the meeting starts, we say the Pledge of Allegiance and the 4-H pledge as a group. When we say our pledges we stand up, use our hands, look at the flags, and say the words as a group.
The secretary stands up and reads notes about the last meeting to remind us of what we talked about. The treasurer stands up and gives a report about the club’s money. The secretary stands up and reads any cards that the club received. Some times, our club doesn’t get any cards, but it is ok.
The kids talk about the fun activities that we want to do and make decisions. All of the kids get to talk and share ideas when asked. When we make decisions, the kids get to vote on what we will do. After everyone votes, the president will tap the gavel and tell us what we voted to do. Some times the gavel tap sounds loud.
At the end of the meeting, kids will get up in front of the group and give talks about 4-H projects that they like. While kids are talking, I will sit down in my chair, be quiet, and listen to what they say.
After we are done with the meeting, all of the kids get to sit together to talk and share yummy snacks.
When 4-H is all done, we will go home in the car. I will get to go back to 4-H next month to see all my friends. 4-H is so much fun!